Aiming to be “physicians of the mouth,” helping patients make the best decisions for their health rather than dwelling on individual teeth, Drs. Anh Tu Pham and Stephen Sulzbach of Chantilly Green Dental Care fully recognize the effects dental conditions can have on the rest of the body. And, thanks to offering all aspects of general dentistry plus sedation, implants, Invisalign® and other cosmetic procedures, TMD and headache treatment, and full-mouth rehabilitation—not to mention Saturday hours—the family-friendly office is what you could call a convenient one-stop shop.

Dr. Pham is an '00 magna cum laude graduate of the Medical College of Virginia School of Dentistry. She also completed a one-year general dentistry internship at the University of Louisville in '01. Since establishing her practice in NoVA, she's received “Best Dentist” recognition from several entities including Northern Virginia Magazine and the Consumers' Research Council of America.

Dr. Sulzbach is an '04 graduate of the Temple University School of Dentistry and Fellow of the renowned Las Vegas Institute for Advanced Dental Studies (LVI)—an accomplishment obtained by completing over 300 hours of advanced training and scoring above the 90th percentile on a rigorous written exam.
